WATER IS ABUNDANT

GLENDALE PEOPLE JUSTIFIED IN PRIDE IN SUPPLY OF PURE WATER

(Contributed)

Coming down from immense natural reservoirs of sand and gravel miles in length and hundreds of feet deep, emerging in springs and rivulets high up above the valley in Verdugo canyon, Glendale, Tropic and adjacent territory enjoy the possession and use of one of nature's choicest blessings—pure, cold water—running by its own gravity to the reservoirs, whence it is distributed to its owners and consumers.

For the benefit of those citizens who are unfamiliar with the conditions concerning our water supply, either from lack of information or because of lack of exactness in such information as they may have, it may be well to make public the result of a trip to the different reservoirs, streams and wells taken in this, the middle of July, and without any knowledge of such trip by anyone other than the writer.

To begin at the beginning, the water of the west side of Verdugo canyon is owned by nearly four hundred individuals and corporations, who are also entitled to their proper proportion of any surplus from the water of the east side of the canyon. There is a surplus whenever the supply exceeds the reasonable requirements of the owners of the canyon lands, said owners by decree of court in 1871 being debarred from using this water outside of the so-called canyon tract.

The proportion of water owned by these numerous individuals and corporations varies greatly, running from a one-twenty-thousandth part up to over a fifth of the whole, with approximately three-fifths of the whole owned or controlled by the following named: Erskine M. Ross, Mrs. C. E. Thom, Title Guaranty & Trust Co. and the city of Glendale.

This water, consisting of all the "west side" stream and the surplus from the "east side" stream, is under the supervision of the Verdugo Canon Water company, a mutual corporation composed of the water owners, and the company divides the water, giving each section of the valley its quota. The Verdugo Canon Water company has no wells, but numerous of the water owners have wells which are used as auxiliary supplies when necessary during the summer.

With the above brief explanation, it will not be difficult to understand the statement which follows concerning the supply of water at the time the observations were made.

The flow of the west side stream was 216 miner's inches, from underground sources 20 inches, from surplus of east side stream approximately 50 inches, from excavations for Canada boulevard bridge approximately 20 inches, being a total of over three hundred inches. This water could not be handled by the main pipeline of the Verdugo Canon Water company, a vitrified pipe 20 inches in diameter at the intake and 16 inches at division box No. 1. It backed up over the top of the intake box and at least 15 inches were being wasted. At division box No. 1, one-fifth of the water belonging to the North Glendale section and the Thom ranch had been, on order, shut off on account of inadequate means of conveying it. Three wells in the canyon belonging to Erskine M. Ross are idle.

Following the water south across the "wash," a new 10-inch steel pipe recently put in by the Verdugo Canon Water company easily carries all the water belonging south of the "wash" to division box No. 2. Here two-thirds of the water running to Tropic was shut off on order (reservoir full), Tropic well idle. Three-fifths of water belonging in Verdugo section shut off on order (reservoir full) Verdugo well idle. Most of this unused supply goes into the Glendale city supply, with the result that both city reservoirs were found to be full and the city's pumping plant idle, as also the well of the Thom interests nearby.

When it is considered that an analysis of the Verdugo canyon water reported by O. H. Jones showed but seven and a fraction grains of foreign matter to the gallon, which is about half that of Owens river water and one-third of Los Angeles river water, and the further fact that this foreign matter consists largely of iron, which is beneficial to the human system, are we not justified in feeling proud of the abundance and purity of our water supply? So far as the writer knows, no case of disease in the valley has ever been traced to the drinking water, and without doubt the city and others interested will use due care and discretion to maintain the record.

OSTEOPATHS IN ANNUAL SESSION
STAND FOR EQUALITY WITH THE OTHER SCHOOLS

In their annual convention at Los Angeles the physicians of the school of osteopathy discussed various topics of vital interest to their body. Dr. I. H. Durfee, 508 South Brand boulevard, and Dr. Raymond Ludden, 114 South Brand boulevard, were among those present at some of the sessions. According to Dr. Durfee there was much profitable discussion of experience and methods and also a strong feeling that no stone should be left unturned to obtain full recognition on the part of the state and a proper share of appointments on state boards.

The convention lasted three days and was closed Saturday with a banquet in the Alexandria hotel.

"Among the subjects discussed," said Dr. Durfee to a representative of the Glendale Evening News, "were gynecology and obstetrics. There was also an interesting account given of the work being done in the school of scientific observation at Chicago."

"Naturally the subject of state recognition came in for a full share of attention. Not long ago the osteopaths of California prepared a bill dealing with this subject; but on the advice of Governor Johnson, withdrew it, leaving it to the governor to see, as he promised, that they should be treated with absolute justice and granted equal freedom and rights with the so-called allopathic school."

"The Association of Osteopaths asks for no special law in its favor," said Dr. Durfee, "but demands that it be accorded equal rights and protection under the law. In accordance with the suggestions of the state, the school has already added the study of materia medica to its curriculum and has prescribed a four years' course for its students. Those who are candidates for osteopathic degrees must conform to the highest standards of scholarship. Therefore, the osteopath feels that he is equal in attainments to graduates of any school and has in addition his own domain of knowledge."

Dr. Raymond Ludden said: "I had the pleasure Saturday morning of hearing Dr. Merrill of Los Angeles giving a most lucid and informing account of the tests now used to determine the state of development of the children of foreign immigrants at New York. The mechanical tests employed are of great interest to the osteopath, as they are in line with much of the teaching he gets in his own schools."

"The question of state recognition was of course much in evidence. At present osteopaths are eligible to appointment on the staffs of county hospitals and as members of state boards of examiners, and many of our brethren have received such appointments, but up to this point we have not succeeded in getting an osteopath on the state board of health and are working toward that end. In the convention it was apparent that the time is at hand when such appointments must be made."

ELKS IN THE CITY

GLENDALE EXTENDS A HEARTY WELCOME TO VISITING
HOSTS OF ELKDOM

With blare of music, blaze of color and shout of welcome, the invading hosts of Elks were given free rein in the good city of Glendale today. The city was gay with its gala decorations. Everywhere the purple and white of the Elks was visible. Glorious weather and good temper, combined with the spirit of hospitality for which the Elks are famous, made the fête one to be remembered in the city.

It is estimated that at least 100,000 visitors are in Los Angeles and its vicinity for this convention. They throng the streets; they pack the theaters; they fill the churches; they flock together in the hotel lobbies; they overflow to the beaches and to the foothills. They are everywhere. Every hour or so a new arrival pulls into the depot and disembarks a contingent gorgeous in new uniforms. The striking uniforms of the Denver Zouave band mingle with every shade and hue of outfit. The streets are picturesque with the tasteful costumes of the many ladies who have accompanied their husbands and friends to this mighty gathering in the City of the Angels.

Everywhere good humor prevails and the large crowds see fun in everything. Laughter, wit and youthful jollity make the atmosphere contagious with merriment, and even the most confirmed pessimist would lose his orientation here and join in believing that this is a good, old world after all.

Everyone is looking forward with interest to the arrival tomorrow morning of the famous Richmond Blues, with their handsome blue uniforms, with white vests and Uhlans-like helmets with white plumes, will give a pleasing note of color to the brilliant kaleidoscope of the streets. Organized in 1789, this famous regiment fought through the War of Independence, the Civil war and the Spanish-American campaign. There are 200 of them in this contingent and all belong to the first families in Virginia.

BUMPER WALNUT CROP

Ventura county promises a bumper crop of English walnuts this year. The trees in every orchard are loaded as never before in years and three and four nuts appear where but two grew in other years. Many of the trees have to be propped to keep from breaking under their loads. The price, which is expected to be fixed by the Walnut Growers' association, is thought will be a good one. Imports are expected to be light in view of the war, and demand for California nuts in consequence large.

and significance of blood pressure in disease. The lecturer pointed out that blood pressure even when excessive or abnormal was not a disease, but a symptom; not dangerous in itself, but indicative of conditions of circulation in the brain. This paper attracted much attention. Altogether, those who attended the convention profited largely."

USE MAXIMUM EFFORTS

CANDIDATES RESPONDING TO
CLARION CALLS OF EXTRA
VOTE OPPORTUNITY

The prize you get at the finish of this contest will be the compensation for your effort, and the next three remaining days of the first and greatest extra vote offer, which closes Thursday of this week, are going to have a great deal to do with the degree of the compensation you get. Take no chances. You, who have worked consistently since the beginning of this campaign, who have gone smiling through the first third of the race, refusing to be discouraged and only working the harder when things did not go as you would have them—make herculean efforts every hour of Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday and you will undoubtedly be one of the leaders at the finish. The reserve votes you pile up now may win for you the Maxwell auto.

The first lap of The News campaign of votes will be reached on Thursday night of this week, the date the first bonus vote offer closes. Now, in the three remaining days of this offer, is your chance to multiply your vote by two, by three or in proportion to the extra votes you can secure.

On every club of six new subscriptions to the Evening News or Tri-City Progress an extra vote certificate for 50,000 votes will be given. All new subscriptions that you have turned in since the beginning of the contest count on this offer. If you secure enough additional subscriptions in the time that remains of the offer to entitle you to the extra vote on three clubs, your score will be increased by 150,000 extra votes—and as many regular votes if you secure yearly subscriptions to the Evening News, which are more valuable than Tri-City Progress subscriptions.

You can easily see by the above statement how easily you may multiply your vote. In fact, by such multiplication of your vote you can make the three days ahead of you bristle with opportunity and possibility.

Getting Second Payments or Extended Subscriptions

Remember about the advantage of getting second payments on subscriptions. If you have received a three months' subscription from a friend, have it increased to six months. If you have procured a six months' subscription, have it extended to a yearly subscription, etc. The first prize, the $850 Maxwell auto, fully equipped, purchased of the King-Maxwell agency, has not yet been won. Neither has the $400 Schiller piano, purchased of the Platt Music company of Los Angeles, the trip to the exposition, the $75 scholarships to the Isaacs-Woodbury Business college, the $50 certificate at the First National bank of Glendale, or any of the prizes. Your chance is still unexcelled. By putting forth the proper efforts you can be successful, and your work counts for most the next three days. Make them count.

CHARGE OF SHORT WEIGHT

On a charge of short weighting, Lena Swartz and Sam Baker were brought before Judge Whomes Monday morning. The charge was sworn to by H. C. West, proprietor of the White store. He charged that they had attempted to defraud him out of $4.05 in the purchase of a quantity of chickens. The charge was brought under the weights and scales laws. The chickens Mr. West said weighed 95 pounds and the defendants only allowed him for 68 pounds. The judge asked the defendants if they pleaded guilty or not guilty. They pleaded not guilty and asked for time to prepare their defense. This was granted on condition that they furnish $100 bail each. This they agreed to do.

RICE CULTURE IN CALIFORNIA

Rice culture has added to California's agricultural activities an industry that has not displaced other crops or is occupying lands that are suitable for other cereals. Abundant water being necessary for growing rice, it is fortunate that it succeeds best on low lands, where water is easily obtained, there being large areas of such land that is too wet in winter to put in shape for other crops, but may be worked when the rice planting season comes on in April or May.

PREACHER IN HOLD-UP

REV. TROY AND AL JENNINGS
HAD THRILLING EXPERIENCE IN POMONA ROBBERY

The Rev. John H. Troy of the local Baptist church had a thrilling experience Sunday night in the Pomona car robbery, when two bandits held up the car and robbed seventy-five persons of $200 and some jewelry. Mr. Troy says that he will never forget the sensation he experienced when the second bandit, who was doing the robbing and searching, came to him, thrust his revolver in his ribs, and ordered him to hand over his money and valuables.

"Believe me," said Mr. Troy today, "when I saw that desperado moving on me with his gun directed toward my eye, his revolver appeared about three feet in length and the bore of the barrel looked to be six inches across. Strange to say, though, when the robber searched my pockets he neglected to search the small pocket where I had the greater part of my money. My sensations were peculiar and for a moment it all seemed unreal. However, it presented me with a magnificent opportunity to study the conduct of an ex-bandit put on the defensive."

"Jennings behaved with the utmost coolness. He had a paper bag in his hands with a considerable amount of money in it. This he quickly and without being seen even by myself, who sat beside him, concealed under the seat cushion. He then stood up and holding on by his hands to the upper part of the window, remained perfectly still and permitted the bandit to go through his pockets. All they got was not of much value. They missed a very valuable diamond ring he was wearing."

"They only got one dollar from me and my check-book. I made a bad mistake at a critical moment. I had a Bible with me and I had dropped it on the floor and stooped down to pick it up or rather made a movement to do so. The bandit was instantaneous and unmistakable in the profanity with which he greeted me, and told me to hold up my hands instantly, and I believe I came as near to being shot at that moment as I may ever be. The bandit in moving past me to get to another victim stumbled over the word of God which I had to leave on the floor."

"The whole affair was something I would not have courted, but having experienced it, I am glad I did so. I will tell the story Wednesday evening at the First Baptist church, taking as my subject, 'A Certain Preacher Went Down to Pomona and Fell Among Thieves.'"

Mr. Troy is full of the exciting experience he has had and can be depended on to give a vivid description of the affair, with Al Jennings' part in it. He says that the lessons to be learned from such a strange experience will make the lecture worth while. The public is invited to this meeting, for which no admission will be charged.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Rev. W. E. Edmonds preached to an unusually large congregation on Sunday morning upon the subject, "Behold the Man," taking for his text the story of Jesus before Pilate as related in John 19:5, "Then Jesus came forth wearing the crown of thorns and the purple robe, and Pilate said, 'Behold the man.'"

A new departure was inaugurated in having the quarterly communion service held at the twilight hour, 6 o'clock. The auditorium was filled and great interest manifested in the solemn service at that time. A number of persons were accepted as members of the church, some upon presentation of letters and others upon confession of faith.

THE GREAT AMERICAN GAME

Mrs. Ella W. Richardson, who is working so strenuously as well as effectively for the success of the Pacific avenue playground, is also a pronounced baseball fan. Through Mrs. Richardson's influence the two league teams that will play on the baseball diamond of the Pacific avenue playground at the opening Saturday, July 24, will be the Hollywood Stars against the College Alumni. The latter team is composed exclusively of college graduates, principally Stanford university men. This game will be a most exciting one and all interested in the great American game are urged to be present.

KILLED BY AUTO CAR

I. H. HALL HIT BY AUTOMOBILE
DRIVEN BY J. C. KLAMM DIES
ALMOST INSTANTLY

What turned out to be a fatal accident took place Sunday night on Central avenue, when J. C. Klam, optometrist and optician, 1218 West Broadway, driving his Studebaker auto, hit I. H. Hall, 1431 Patterson avenue. Klam was driving along Central avenue between Milford and First about 8 p. m., accompanied by Miss Ethel Preston, 1414 Sycamore avenue, an employee in the Preston bakery, when the accident took place.

Hall, who was well known to many people in Glendale, was a hale and hearty man, who did not appear to be more than sixty years of age. He retired from business some years ago. Like many similar accidents, it is difficult to decide how it occurred. One of the parties is dead and the other naturally can give only one side of the occurrence.

Miss Ethel Preston, who was with Klam, stated that the first thing she saw was Hall lying beside the rear wheels of the car when Klam succeeded in stopping the auto.

It was pretty dark at the time the accident occurred. Unfortunately, Mr. Klam had not lit his large Presto lights at the front of the auto. He gave as his reason for this that he was only going a very short distance and did not think it necessary to light up, especially as he had his small lights lit.

D. O. Peet, 1428 Milford street, and W. H. Buriff, 1421 Milford street, picked Hall up and placed him in the auto of F. L. Miller, 1424 Milford street, and started for Thornycroft hospital. Dr. Russell Boyer also went along with the party, having rendered what aid was possible to the wounded man. On the road to the hospital Hall died.

Klam says that he was driving at the rate of not more than twelve miles an hour when the accident occurred. Hall, he says, stepped off the curb with the evident intention of crossing the street, but seeing the auto, stopped short. Klam also slowed up, but seeing Hall stop, proceeded on his way. Hall then suddenly changed his intentions and started on again. The whole affair happened in a few seconds. As Hall started on the second time, he and the auto collided.

The auto, which is held in the police station as evidence in the case, had the lower half of the windshield smashed completely, about one-third of the glass being left in the frame. One of the headlights is also broken off and the rod connecting the headlights is smashed. One end of the radiator is loosened.

Hall's body was turned over to the Pulliam Undertaking company, as representatives of the coroner.

The wound from which Hall died was a deep cut on the head extending from about an inch above the right ear to a distance of four or five inches toward the back of the head. The right ear was also bruised and badly discolored. The immediate cause of death, Dr. Boyer states, was concussion of the brain.

Klam was brought to the police station and held for investigation. He was released, however, on the sureties of A. L. Maddy, 210 Belmont street, and J. P. Lukens, 349 South Verdugo road, who guaranteed his appearance at the coroner's inquest, which will be held today at 2 p. m.

KEPT A SUMP HOLE

It is not easy at times to keep track of the many ordinances of the city and still less easy to know their many clauses. W. P. Bullock and Mrs. W. P. Bullock of Glendale Heights, for ignorance of one of the provisions of the city ordinance that deals with cesspools and sumpholes, find themselves charged in the recorder's court with maintaining a sump hole within twenty feet of the supply stream of the Verdugo Canon Water company. That water is used for domestic consumption and the maintenance of such a sump hole where all the refuse and waste water of the house is discharged is a violation of a city ordinance dealing with that subject.

The complaint was lodged by Joe Banker, the plumbing inspector. Judge Whomes appointed Thursday at 3 p. m. for hearing the case.

RETURN FROM CAMP

Alexander Mitchell, the popular receiver at the United States land office in Los Angeles, and his son, Gilbert Mitchell, returned Sunday evening to their home on Kenneth road, North Glendale, from a delightful outing at their mountain camp located far up among the picturesque crags and peaks in the Big Tejuja canyon.

WARS OF INDEPENDENCE

That the spirit of liberty is not dead in the American heart, although they no longer permit us to manifest it by making the welkin ring with firecrackers, is seen in the latest attempt at "secession." It is true that the benighted inhabitants of the Philippines, obtuse to the voice of liberty rapped out by the staccato notes of the "krag," have never given up a little war of independence of their own and emphasized it with the bolo, which lops of a limb mightily cleanly, but then they do not know what is good for them.

It is true that Porto Rico and Cuba have occasionally "kicked against the pricks" and mildly suggested that being ruled by the sugar and tobacco trusts is not being ruled by the United States; but then they are ignorant of the vast benefits of government by trust. All these things can be understood and the objections to American rule explained away; but when Staten Island threatens to secede, "there's something rotten in the state of Denmark."

Hawaii has arisen in her might and demanded independence. Even Rockaway, which is almost insular in geographical outline, although it would resent any such imputation regarding its social development, has attempted to kick over the traces. Alaska, indignant at its mismanagement by the embattled farmers at Washington, D. C., has held meetings and passed resolutions to secede and join Canada, where mining laws are reasonable, but has gone home and forgotten all about it.

When Staten Island, however, begins to show signs of unrest and mouths out its determination to secede, it is time that something were done. If the parent country, the United States, can do nothing else, it can adopt the French revolution password, "Sois mon frere, ou je te tue—be my brother or I'll kill you," and with one full blast of its harbor guns blow the offender into eternal mummy.

WAR'S MISUSE OF MONEY

If the present war does nothing else than demonstrate the awful waste of money and resources, that goes on in such a conflict as that now raging in Europe, it will have accomplished something of great value to the world at large. Philander P. Claxton, United States commissioner on education and lecturer under the auspices of the Carnegie endowment for international peace, has been telling the country in his recent lectures that the money it annually spends on its army and navy would build ten coast-to-coast highways at a cost of $10,000 a mile annually. He points out that this country, with that money, could drain 100,000,000 acres of swamp land each year and convert it into fertile soil.

Mr. Claxton says that the United States, with its army and navy cost money, could construct a Panama canal every eighteen months and, better than all, establish a national university with an annual income of $10,000,000 a year and a faculty of 1000 professors capable of earning salaries of from $5000 to $10,000 a year, and in the same year establish a university in every state in the Union, with an annual income of $1,000,000 each.

In short, there is no limit to the good that this money, now worse than wasted, could do. It could train a staff of inventors that in the course of a year or two could place this country beyond the possibility of attack by any foreign country. It could raise up such a generation of intelligence and succeeding generations of greater knowledge that the United States would really control the world.

These are no Utopian dreams; they are within the domain of practical possibility. What this country needs is a beginning on that line. Once the people had tasted of the fruits of this new knowledge, there would be no turning back.

AL JENNINGS ON HOLD-UPS

It used to be a maxim of the ancient church that an old criminal made a new saint. There is truth in the adage. The roll of honor in the church shows many names of men and women who had distinguished themselves by their devotion to evil, and when turned to good, made a record as creditable as their former record was discreditable. Men formed to convert because formed to endure. Men whom nothing could dismay, but who in the fervor of their belief were inspired and did inspire.

Such a man is Al Jennings. When a sceptical modern world asks for miracles, it might well look at the case of this man, once a hold-up man, a train and stage robber; now as good a man as any saint in the calendar. Held up and robbed Sunday in the Pomona car robbery, Jennings takes the proper view of the affair. He is sorry for the men. He thanks God that they did not kill anyone, and he has something to say in palliation of their offense or rather in explanation of it. He points to the large number of men who are out of employment and who are seeking to make a living but cannot. While deprecating the means these men took to get money, Jennings sees beyond the mere effect and notes the cause. If those who are responsible for social welfare would in like manner go back to first causes, they might do something to reform men.

Jennings has no hypocritical whine over the criminals. He is something like Paul in his desire that they were "not only almost but altogether" such as he is. He offers to talk with them and longs to show them how their present course is headed for a life term or the electric chair. He yearns after those misguided men. That is the true spirit of the evangelist. Armed with that wide Christian charity, Jennings, with the blessing of God's spirit, should be able to do much good in this world.

If the conversion of Al Jennings is not genuine, then the conversion of Paul was not. The same facts obtain in both cases—spiritual blindness, a sudden light and then a new life. That is the case with everyone born of the spirit. Like the wind its effects are seen—the tall trees bow their heads; the sins of omission and commission are blown away. There is value untold in the spectacle of such a life. Its power of encouragement to others is incalculable.

A BIG LAND DEAL

SYCAMORE CANYON IS INCLUDED IN TRANSFER OF 1647-ACRE TRACT

One of the most beautiful domains of "wild" land in the vicinity of Los Angeles changed ownership during the past week, when Crampton Anderson, a wealthy oil man and a brother-in-law and business associate of E. L. Doheny, purchased from the Clairvue Land company a 1647-acre tract of hill and canyon property extending from the city limits of Glendale on the west to the city limits of Pasadena on the east, says the Los Angeles Sunday Times. Final papers in the deal passed Saturday.

The consideration is understood to have been in the neighborhood of $500,000. John R. Powers of this city represented both sides in the transaction.

The property sold includes much of what has been known for a generation as the San Rafael hills. The holding at several places has an elevation of from 1500 to 1800 feet.

In it there are declared to be in the neighborhood of 1000 different canyons, large and small. Most of these are heavily wooded with sycamores and live oaks. Sycamore canyon, the largest and best known of all, has long been a favorite picnic ground for autoists on account of its dense growth of trees and the running stream which starts in the springs at its upper reaches.

The land extends, roughly speaking, from the Verdugo canyon road on the west to the corporate limits of Pasadena on the east, and from a point just north of the Glendale-Eagle Rock road on the south to the Flintridge estate of former United States Senator Frank P. Flint on the north. On the east it slopes down to Linda Vista and the Arroyo Seco district, overlooking the whole of Pasadena and the San Gabriel valley. At its western end the property commands a fine panorama, taking in Verdugo canyon and the city of Glendale.

The new owner will at once put a large force of men to work on the construction of an extensive series of contour drives designed to make all parts of the property accessible from the main county roads that surround it. This having been accomplished, Mr. Anderson will probably subdivide the greater part of the holding into sites of from five to fifty acres, adaptable for foothill estates.

The new owner is said also to be considering the utilization of that part of the property lying within Sycamore canyon as the site for a large country place for himself. Whether or not this plan is followed out, Mr. Anderson intends to carry out a project, often suggested in the past, of joining Pasadena and Glendale with a direct highway through the canyon.

The enterprise is entirely feasible, as a serviceable road of easy grade now extends into the canyon as far as a beautiful meadow of about 100 acres at its head. The completion of the road to Pasadena will involve the making of a cut through a hill which opens into another canyon at the eastern edge of the holding and the continuation of the roadway.

The whole of the land sold was filed upon in an early day because of its possibilities as a source of water supply, the hills draining into valleys on every side. The holding was acquired by the Sierra Land and Water company in 1889. When this concern went out of business a few years later, the ownership, represented by stock, passed into the hands of Kesler & Co., a brokerage firm of New York City. Kesler & Co. failing, the stock was taken over by Charles E. Sexton of the same city, acting as a trustee in bankruptcy.

The reorganization that followed resulted in the creation of the Clairvue Land company, with A. W. McPherson of Santa Monica as president and Henry P. Monahan of Los Angeles as secretary. The task of getting in all the stock preliminary to the transfer just made was entrusted to John Hunter, a local attorney, and occupied months of time.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY

By means of a picnic dinner, with games and good fellowship, the ladies of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Congregational church passed away a pleasant afternoon last week at the home of Mrs. A. Lucas Smith, 305 North Adams street.

It is worth while remembering that the state of Georgia was not concerned over the fact that little Mary Phagan had to toil in a factory when she should have been at school. Many others of her type survive there.

ROOSEVELT AND BRYAN TO ATTEND SAN DIEGO FAIR WITHIN SHORT TIME

SAN DIEGO, July 10.—Begging as little formality as possible, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt has just written President G. A. Davidson of the San Diego exposition that he will be a visitor to the exposition during the latter part of this month. Colonel Roosevelt has engaged hotel accommodations in San Diego, the reservation to begin July 27.

In the letter written from Oyster Bay, Colonel Roosevelt says in part: "It is a great pleasure to hear from you. I am happy to say that I shall be in San Diego to visit the exposition but I would like as little formality as possible, for I hear so much of the beauty of the exposition that I want to go around and see it."

Although Colonel Roosevelt expresses a desire that there be no special ceremonies during his visit, his wish probably will not be complied with, for already plans are formulated to have a great number of his former Rough Riders here to act as an escort of honor. Col. R. E. Twitchell, president of the New Mexico commission to the exposition, is now in the field rounding up the Rough Riders who were with Roosevelt at San Juan. Those who are now engaged in occupations in Arizona, Texas, New Mexico and California are enthusiastic over the plan of escorting Roosevelt, and already more than 100 have arranged to be here during his visit.

The visit of Roosevelt will be made the occasion of a big demonstration at the exposition, which will include a reunion of the Rough Riders and particular features appealing to the Spanish-American war veterans. It will also see a monster parade in which all troops stationed in Southern California and the crews of the Pacific fleet will engage.

It is quite probable that the exposition will be visited by Wm. Jennings Bryan, former secretary of state, the latter part of this month. Mr. Bryan had arranged to visit the San Francisco exposition early this month and in answer to an invitation to visit the exposition here, states that his visit to the northern exposition will not take place until the latter part of July. Mr. Bryan also advises the San Diego exposition that he intends to come here and will announce the date of his arrival after he has seen the San Francisco exposition.

The steady streams of governors and other dignitaries visiting the San Diego exposition continues. Governor Samuel M. Ralston of Indiana has just been here, his visit being marked by a special program arranged by the Indiana society of San Diego. Governor William Spry of Utah, David I. Walsh, Massachusetts; Henry C. Stuart, Virginia, and Frank B. Willis, Ohio, are due here this month, while governors of western states who were here earlier in the year, are coming back for a second visit.

These air raids on civilians are not only wicked, but foolish. They do not terrify, to any appreciable extent, but they increase hatred and inspire revenge.

A New York parson says charity begins in the cradle, not the kennel. You need not neglect your dog, because you care for your child.

Did you ever think what would happen if you should tell "the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth" even for one day?

One of the most pitiful spectacles I know is that of an old man who has sacrificed his whole life to the accumulation of money.

When you are inclined to complain of your lot, think of the millions who are less fortunate and be thankful.

HORSE WON A MEDAL

A Russian artillery horse won a bronze medal at Plevna. Orders were given for some ammunition wagons to be hurried to a spot that meant crossing the enemy's zone of fire. All the time shells were crashing among the horses, bringing them down in heaps and frightening such as escaped. Times without number did the Russian drivers, sparing neither whip nor spur, attempt to urge the horses forward, but they stood cowed and shivering with their fright. Some were blindfolded, but the effect was the same, and only one horse showed any willingness to go. Thereupon the driver jumped down and, cutting the traces of the other horses, drove the willing one at full gallop through the fire. The wagon passed through without exploding, and after the war the horse was decorated in the manner described and the driver promoted.

INTERNATIONAL CONVENTION

Members and friends of the Christian church, attention!

The state and international convention convenes at the Bible institute building July 16 to 25. Sunday, July 18, the churches of Los Angeles and vicinity will adjourn their 11 o'clock service and all will assemble at the Bible institute auditorium for a great union service. At 3 o'clock in the same room will be held the great union communion service, to which every disciple should be present. The international convention program will begin with the evening service.

The Christian church of Glendale will have no preaching service either morning or evening on July 18 that all may attend the convention.

The Bible school will meet, however, at the usual hour and will dismiss in time for those who go to the city. We want a record-breaking attendance at Bible school. There will be communion services for those who cannot go to the city.
